SAN FRANCISCO, CA, September 10, 2018–Today, in the digital world of the internet, the line between friendship and business is ever more blurred. Given the fact that the business world is a rather merciless one, friendships, as well as other social ties can sometimes become the first casualty. With that being said, I'm personally obsessed with creating a fantasy RPG that I hope will eventually let players enter the Elden Ring and explore its vast world. As such, I would like to share more information about the design of the game. When I was working as a young teacher in middle school and high school, I frequently played a variety of role-playing games such as Final Fantasy, Chrono Trigger, and other titles. However, I only ever really liked Final Fantasy and Chrono Trigger, since I felt these titles allowed you to enjoy the simple things in life and create a variety of memorable characters. As such, I set my goals based on making a new type of RPG that would allow players to enjoy the simple things in life. I would like to create a fantasy RPG that is a new kind of game with beautiful 2-D pixel art that allows you to enjoy small things, such as traveling in the same direction as your friends or watching the sunrise on a mountain. To be clear, the game will not be business oriented, since the Elden Ring is a place where commoners are able to join and explore the Lands Between. I hope to create a fantasy RPG that is based on the weak and simple, unlike so many games that revolve around power, war, and the like. In fact, as the background story of the Lands Between unfolds, a hidden content and design will hopefully be revealed. In addition to the game, I hope to introduce new concepts to the world of RPGs. Some of the concepts being looked into include the opportunity to create your own character, a unique story that explores the Lands Between, and other concepts. In addition, to give a glimpse of the coming attractions, I have recreated some the events that I saw in the game's trailer. The next time I will update with more information about the game! NAKAMURA-KO Nakamura-ko in the lands Between. Rest in the Caves and learn to attain your Graces and power. I, who has forgotten the past life, live in the lands Between. Let us share a drink. As an attendant, how should I react? The Shogi Game. It is said that in a play of eternal peace and unceasing life, in the lands Between, those who die, return to life, and those who return to life, die again. The first time I heard this, I wanted to crawl into a hole and die. But this same hole was where I had felt a sense of life. Everything that was once mine has been lost; the City, the gods, the people, friends; everything. It is as if I have forgotten my own past life. This is the place where people avoid contact with others. But if this is the place where I'm living now, should I not enjoy the company of these people? I still remember the face of the man who came here with me. It was an ominous figure who seemed to be guiding me. I had seemed to feel a sense of sadness. A joyous smile spilled over my lips, and I could not hold it back. That man was me. I had forgotten who I was, and a person from the past life, the so-called Goukuryu, had appeared. A Goukuryu is an individual who is forgotten by the world and wanders through the lands Between. But I have chosen to forget. The past that is left behind is a situation in which I killed someone. It's better not to remember that person. The other Goukuryus bff6bb2d33
