an apparatus for conveniently and safely releasing a hook from a fish. 2. Description of the Related Art The art of fishing has undergone many changes since its early development. One particularly difficult problem has been the inability of a person to easily and safely release a hook from the mouth of a fish without the hook becoming completely embedded in the fish's mouth. Numerous solutions to this problem have been proposed in the art. One such solution is shown in U.S. Pat. No. 4,343,463 to Hamilton, granted Aug. 10, 1982, which discloses a device comprising a rod portion with a hook attached thereto. A pawl, in the form of a circular array of parallel, spaced teeth, is rotatably mounted to the rod. The teeth fit into an opening in the throat of a fish and include a manually operable lever to move the teeth out of the throat of the fish.

Once the teeth are sufficiently removed from the fish, the user releases a lock so the teeth are brought back into the throat of the fish and the fish is released. This device requires a complex array of moving parts and is inherently dangerous to use. Since the fisherman must move the teeth close to the user's hand, there is a danger that the user's hand may be pinched between the teeth and the lock. U.S. Pat. No. 2,659,008 to Sobel, granted Nov. 17, 1953, discloses a device similar to that of Hamilton, in which a hook is mounted to the end of a rod, the end of the rod being cut into a triangular shape. The hook is then inserted into the mouth of a fish. A manual lever is then moved to deflect the end of the rod into the throat of the fish. The lever is also provided with teeth which rotate about the end of the rod to ensure that the teeth are moved out of the throat of the fish. Again, this device requires moving parts and is mechanically complex. A still further approach is shown 648931e174

I have figured out the solution was to use the credentials from the azure subscription as it will connect using the azure management portal and connect using the same username and password of azure subscription. How do I get the user name and password from azure subscription so that the deployment will connect to azure in the same way I connect using the management portal? A: To get this information you can use the following REST API: Basic operation code for this API is POST. Here is a sample request that adds an Identity Administrator role to the default site: POST HTTP/1.1 Host: management.azure.com Content-Type: application/json User-Agent: azsdk-python-azure-mgmt-webapp/1.0.0b1 Python/3.7.3 (Windows-10-10.0.19041-SP0) Authorization: Bearer ya29.xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx Content-Length: 261 Accept-Encoding: gzip, deflate X-MsDeploy-ServiceUrl: X-MsDeploy-Acl: Secured { "assignmentId": "0fb35f4d-
